Dear Mr.Magedson: Again, you never answered my questions. As a "consumer advocate" I would assume you have a responsibility to fairness. Allowing anyone to blast a company without checking their veracity is not fair.

Stock answer? .. sort of, ... we get over 1,200 e-mails a day.

Anyone can take you to court for anything, and that info is available, public info.

Your e-mail is one in 50,000 as to what you say.

Well, it seems you never even read my original e-mail. Your reply to me was not in response to my e-mail but appears to be a "stock" answer you give to individuals who may have been ripped off. PLEASE READ MY E-MAIL and respond to that.!!

Subject: RE: Reports

Now or in the future, if your ever the victim of a Rip-off, ... here is what we tell consumers.....

So we can better understand the situation to possibly try to help you...

If you've been the victim of a Rip-off, you should first file your own detailed Rip-of Report. Your report will be looked at by other consumers interested with your situation and may be posted on your Rip-off Report, so others may benefit by the rip-off you experienced. The more Rip-off Reports on a company, the more educated other consumers will be when dealing with the reported company or individual. This will also help create a better working history on the company or individual that Ripped you off and give us the information needed if a lawsuit is filed.

Go to www.ripoffreport.com to file your Report

Those interested in joining a possible class action lawsuit should first file a detailed Rip-off Report; ..using your contact information, Rip-off Report Consumer Advocates will e-mail you once there are attorneys interested in working on a class action lawsuit against this company or individual, never costing you any money, or a lawyer might be interested in your particular case individually. That's why it is important to file a detailed Rip-off Report explaining exactly what happened and in most cases, what you think you are owed.

FTC, Attorney General and even FBI all look at Rip-off Report, ... the more Reports that are put out in the open like this, the better, this embarrasses them all into doing something! ... those reports with them and the BBB, you never get to see! They all come to RIP-off Report to see what is going on, and, it also immediately warns consumers, out in the open! They all just suck in the information and never let you, the consumer see a thing!

Go to www.ripoffreport.com to file your Report

Subject: Reports

To Whom It May Concern: While I applaud your efforts to help people find out information about companies, I have a problem with the methods. You do not require any verification of individuals' names, locations, experiences. That is very, very dangerous. My company has recently been on the receiving end of a few bad reports. I don't know who these people are and they have not given any information that we can verify. We don't know if they have really had any bad experiences with us. In addition, I am now receiving ripoff reports that are from my own e-mail address addressed to me. I want this to stop! I hope that you take my comments seriously, we do.

Please tell me how you verify names, experience, etc. so that your site isn't just a site for anyone that can "make-up" negative claims. Also, please tell me why I am receiving these e-mails and how they can be stopped.

Thank You,

Dr. Paul B. Bleiweis
President
